PRICE, THREE CENTS

EVENING CONCERT IS WELL ATTENDED

Main Line Orchestra Offers
Program of Familiar

PLAY BACH CONCERT

A pleasing program and an excellent attendance marked the second concert of the season, given by the Main Line Orchestra in the Ardmore Theater Sunday night. This was the first program rendered by the organization in the evening, former concerts being scheduled for Sunday afternoons.

Miss Maisie Chance, pianist, was the soloist, playing the fifth Brandenburg Concerto of Bach, and three solo numbers. In the concerto the trio parts were played by Miss Chance, Alexander Thiede, violin, and Joseph La Monaca, flute. The last two named are members of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The program was in distinctly classical vein, the only composers approaching the modern school being Grieg and Debussy. Compositions of Gluck, Haydn, Bach and Weber made up the remainder of the program.

The concert was opened by Gluck's Petite Suite de Ballet, consisting of shortened versions of four of his familiar numbers, arranged to suit the limitations of a small orchestra. Haydn's D Major Symphony No. 2 was represented by parts of the Adagio and Menuetto movements.

Played with Accuracy.

Adolph Vogel, the conductor, read the compositions with excellent tempi, and the orchestra played with accuracy and balance, limited only by the slight inaccuracies of the individual players, all amateur musicians.

The orchestra gave capable accompaniment to the three soloists in the concerto. The rhythm which only Bach can impart, and the rich melodies were well brought out. Miss Chance, a pupil of Horace Alwyne, played with strength and technical accuracy, being especially effective in the virtuosic passages for solo piano.

Miss Chance gave as solo numbers Chopin's "Chant Polonais," "The Dew Fairy," by Frank

TENNIS ASSOCIATION TO HOLD ANNUAL DANCE

Caesar, Social Lion, Can't Resist
This Big Event.

An event of the social season, which is too interesting for even the secretive Caesar to keep secret, is the mid-winter dance of the Narberth Tennis Association to be held on Friday evening, February 3, 1928, from 9 to 12 o'clock in the beautiful new dance hall above the Narberth Theater.

The music will be of the same high standard and tunefulness as that of former Tennis Club dances. Novel and attractive door prizes and dance prizes will be awarded during the course of the evening. The inimitable Jack Wine will be Master of Ceremonies during the reign of King Jazz that evening.

The dance will be a formal affair and non-members of the club are cordially invited to attend. This dance is being held in Narberth in order to give the residents of Narberth an opportunity to attend this gay function and to become acquainted with the members of the club.

Tickets will be sold at the door only. The admission charge including the tax will be $2.20 per couple.

It has been stated by those who should know that even Caesar will discard his loyal bloodhounds, Sniff and Snooff, that evening in favor of his old girl, Cleopatra.

So "come and trip it as ye go on the light fantastic toe."

AUXILIARY TO MEET

The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will hold their regular meeting on Thursday, February 2, from 10 to 11. Luncheon will be served at 1. Surgical dressings and sewing for the Presbyterian Hospital are scheduled.

Old Post Office Building Being Moved By Railroad to Stop Hazard

The second step in the transformation of the Narberth station was taken this week when work was commenced on the removal of Robert J. Nash's real estate office to a new position. The first move was made early this month when the freight station was changed to Wynnewood.

The Nash office, a wooden structure, has long jutted out into the line of Haverford avenue at the corner opposite the post office. It has obstructed the vision of both pedestrians and motorists at this point, and has been considered a grave traffic hazard.

The building is being moved several yards west of its present site and four feet south, so as to bring it to the wall of the station building proper. When the removal is completed the corner will be rounded and a four-foot pavement will be laid along the south side of Haverford avenue from that point to the steps leading from the platform to Essex avenue.

The building inspector issued a temporary permit for the removal of the structure, as its construction is not in conformance with the building laws. It will eventually give way when the station improvements are completed.

The office was put up nearly 15 years ago as a temporary home for the post office, which later took larger quarters on Haverford avenue. When the post office was moved Mr. Nash took possession.

Last year the Narberth Board of Trade voted in favor of the removal of the Narberth freight station to Wynnewood, so that the tracks on

CHURCH PAGE IS NEW DEPARTMENT

Narberth Congregations Join in Series of Historical Articles.

This week "Our Town" commences the publication of a feature which, it is hoped, will become a permanent part of the paper—an entire page devoted entirely to Narberth churches.

On this page each week will be printed historical and informative material relating to our local church buildings and congregations. The plan is to inform the residents of the community of the facilities for worship offered in and near their own town.

The outline of the series calls for a description of the church home of each of the eight denominations found in Narberth and its immediate surroundings. A picture of each building will be published, together with the history of the church.

The page this week is devoted to the Baptist Church of the Evangel—first in the alphabetical series. A picture of the building is shown, and interesting facts concerning the history and activities of the church are presented.

The page is made possible through the joint co-operation of officials of the various churches and a few business men who are inserting their announcements. The three churches using display space this week will be joined later by others who have promised to participate. Within two or three weeks, it is expected that each denomination will be represented in the display portion of the page.

The cost of printing the feature and purchasing the plates is being met in the manner stated, with the expectation that as each new group takes its part the expense will be small enough to guarantee the permanence of the plan. The schedule now arranged calls for 12 pages.

Suggestions are invited from members of any Narberth denomination, in order to make the page of interest and benefit to all. These suggestions will receive consideration if turned over either to a minister or to the editor of "Our Town."

The idea originated from conversation with several pastors who saw the need for a way to introduce Narberth's church life to new residents and those not now identified with local congregations. The regular detailed church notes will be included on the page.

CIRCLE HOLDS LUNCHEON

The annual meeting of the Evangel Circle of King's Daughters takes place at the home of Mrs. William D. Smedley, 227 North Narberth avenue, on February 1. All members are expected to attend, and to bring a guest or more. Luncheon at 12.30, 50 cents per person. Those expecting to be present are requested to notify Mrs. Smedley. "The Harvester" is to be the picture at the circle's benefit at the Narberth Theater on Thursday, February 9.

FIRE CHIEFS PLAN BETTER PROTECTION

Discuss Territory Coverage at Meeting With Smith
and Warnock.

Plans for auxiliary protection by nearby fire companies of communities whose own companies are already out answering alarms, were discussed at a meeting of the chiefs of Lower Merion and Narberth fire companies, held Tuesday night in the township building at Ardmore.

A. D. Warnock, new chairman of the township police and fire committee, called the chiefs together for a talk with Police Superintendent Charles P. Smith and to greet two newcomers, Chief Horace Heaps, of the West Manayunk Fire Company, and William L. Hornung, chief of the Bala-Cynwyd Fire Company. Both had been elected since the last meeting of the Board of Engineers in October—Hornung in December, and Heaps in January.

Those present included Chiefs Charles V. Noel, of Narberth, chairman of the board; William G. Blair, Sr., of the Autocar Fire Department, secretary of the board; William L. Hornung, of the Union Fire Association, Cynwyd; Horace Parsons, of the Bryn Mawr Company; Horace Heaps, of West Manayunk; and William Bingham, of the Merion Fire Association, Ardmore.

Fire captains and assistant chiefs who attended were William Newburg, of Narberth; Paul Giersch, of Bryn Mawr; John Bottinger, of West Manayunk; Ed. McGoldrick, of Ardmore, and Benjamin F. Slaw, of Cynwyd.

MOORISH TONE IN CAFE

The Arcadia Restaurant, for several years the "eating out" headquarters of Narberth, has completed a thorough transformation. For several weeks decorators have been busy changing the interior.

From a conventional cafe of the Greek-American school, the Arcadia has become a spacious, restful and artistic Moorish room. Rounded arches have replaced the old store doorways, and a similar entrance leads to a little phone alcove. The counter with its high stools is gone, and the border of coat hooks has given way to a customer at the door.

The work has been done under the direction of Marios Chios, founder of the restaurant, and his partner, Nick Ramos. They have endeavored to create a civic improvement at the same time greater space was being provided.

CLUB NOTES

January 31—Home Economics Class will meet with Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller. There will be a talk on budgeting and a demonstration of repainting old furniture.

February 1—Literature Class at the home of Mrs. W. C. Newman on Antwyn road.

February 2—From 3 to 4 P. M. Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs will broadcast readings, talks and songs by the county chorus.

SCOUT SPONSORS IN JOINT MEETING

Fathers' Association and Troop Committee Confer on Program.

PLAN WINTER CAMPING

This ought to be a big year for the Narberth Boy Scouts. It will be, if a live interest on the part of some of Narberth's big boys can make it so.

On Monday evening, January 23, a joint meeting of the Narberth Fathers' Association and the Troop Committee was held for the general discussion of 1928 Scout activities. While winter weather curtails the Scout work normally done out of doors, those who have planned for the development of the boys through the Scout movement have arranged many interesting things for the boys to do.

Winter camping is one form of sport, an instruction that has gained great favor. But the problem is to find a suitable place, within hiking distance, where the needed accommodations can be had. To look into this matter, and find out whether or not such a place can be provided for our Narberth Troop, a committee was appointed by Chairman Greene. Messrs. Snyder, Krauskof and Schroeder cheerfully accepted the job.

Another job of real value to the boys was successfully handled by Mr. Greene—flood lights for the grounds around the Scout house. The arrangements are all made, and it won't be long now until on meeting nights the flood lights will make possible outdoor work and play.

Next Friday evening our boys go to Ardmore for competitive tests with the Ardmore Scouts. They will probably hike one way, if weather permits, and later on Ardmore boys come to Narberth for a return engagement. On this occasion the meeting will probably be held in the American Legion Hall, because the Scout house would be too small.

Saturday afternoon and evening will be Boy Scout Day at the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia. Beginning early in the afternoon there will be something interesting to the boys going on up in the roof garden, and then at 6.30 P. M. the annual Boy Scout Banquet. Here men from all over the district will gather in the interests of Scouting, and speakers of national prominence will be there.

To Mr. Wentz was assigned the task of having the words "Boy Scouts, Narberth" painted in large letters on the roof of the Scout house. This will not only tell passing aviators where they are, but will also give our town some advertising from the train windows.

Other subjects of future interest to the Scouts were discussed, but there can be no further announcements until further progress has been made.

Meanwhile make your plans so that you can visit Valley Forge on Washington's birthday. You will witness the annual pilgrimage gathering of the Boy Scouts of Delaware and Montgomery counties. And when you have seen those boys, hundreds of them, go through their solemn ceremony in honor of the "Father of Our Country" you will agree that Scouting has a very definite place in the early life of every boy.

CHURCH MUSICALS

A triple quartet will present a special musical service at the Baptist Church on Sunday evening, January 29, at 7.45. This triple quartet is composed of the regular church quartet and several other local and Philadelphia soloists. The program is as follows: "Hear My Prayer," Mendelssohn; "Ho! Everyone That Thirsteth," Martin; "There Shall Be No More Night," Wood; "Crossing the Bar," Barnby; "Day of Judgment," Arkhangelsky; "Lift Thine Eyes," Mendelssohn; "Inflammatus," Rossini.

GRASS FIRES

During the past week the Narberth Fire Company was called out for three field fires, and one blaze January 21. The latter was the garage of L. J. Smith, Levering Mill road, Cynwyd, at 7.30 A. M., where a truck had caught fire. The damage, estimated at $300, was covered by insurance. There was no damage at the grass fires.

SCHOOL BOARD TO GIVE DENTAL CARE

Every Pupil Will Be Examined
By Dentist Employed for Work.

FREE CLINIC PROVIDED

Free dental inspection, with provision for clinical care, has been added to the services rendered the students by the Narberth School authorities. This was provided for at the January meeting of the school board Friday night.

Dr. Edgar I. Diller, dentist retained by the Lower Merion school district, will make an examination of every student at the local schools, and will advise treatment where necessary. In cases where the parents are unable to pay for treatment, and consent to clinical services, these will be provided free with a 25-cent charge for materials.

The dental work will be done Mondays in the clinics at the Lower Merion High School. Decision to institute this service was made after the school physician called attention to many cases of serious dental trouble among the pupils.

A delegation of the Mothers' Council attended the meeting and offered their co-operation in school problems. They suggested that teachers be asked to attend the meetings of the council, and this the board agreed to arrange.

The offer of A. E. Wohlert to plant trees on the school playground was accepted with thanks by the board. The planting will be similar to that given the borough by Mr. Wohlert on the community field.

School Notes.

On Wednesday, February 1, Dr. Sloane will give the Schick Test to pupils who receive the Toxin Antitoxin test last year. Parents who wish their children to receive this test will notify the pupil's classroom teacher in writing, not later than Monday, January 30, if possible.

At 11.30 on February 1 children who did not receive the Toxin Antitoxin test last year may receive it at that time upon the request of parents. This applies to children of pre-school age also. The fee for either test will be 25 cents.

On February 10 and 17, through the courtesy of the Narberth Electric Shop, the junior high and the grammar schools will hear a program of music by Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra.

On Wednesday Miss Ross and Miss Munro attended the Philadelphia Suburban Measurement Group meeting at Swarthmore, where they gave a report on the analysis of types of errors in arithmetic.

Victrola programs are given every Tuesday at assembly. The school is enjoying the orthophonic victrola recently purchased by the board of directors.

Volley ball games are now held every Wednesday between the Red teams and the Grays. At present the Reds lead, two games to one.

BUSINESS MEN TO MEET

Board of Trade to Discuss Plans for 1928 Monday.

The first meeting of the Narberth Board of Trade after a lapse of several months will be held Monday night in the auditorium over the Narberth Theater.

The session is scheduled to start at 8 P. M. The supper, which in the past has preceded the meetings, will be omitted this month. The evening will be devoted to a business discussion.

The Board of Trade feels satisfaction over the accomplishments of 1927, the first year of its existence. A number of matters vital to the business life of the community were brought to a successful conclusion. The meeting Monday night is to lay down a schedule of things to work for in 1928.

CALL MEETING ON STREET WIDENING

Council Seeks Public Opinion on Matter of Vital Interest.

TO MOVE LINE 10 FEET

There is probably no doubt that if it were possible to start all over again, all of the streets in the business center of Narberth would be made very much wider because of the traffic congestion which modern conditions have brought about. Anything which can be done now to relieve the congestion of course increases the desirability of Narberth as a business and shopping center. The thing to be determined is whether anything should be done at this time and, if so, how much and by whom the expense

There was introduced at the December meeting of Council an ordinance which has already passed first reading and which, if finally adopted, would provide for setting back the property lines 10 feet on each side of Essex, Forrest and Narberth avenues between Haverford and Windsor avenues. The passage of that ordinance would mean that no buildings of any character could be projected beyond the newly-established line and that ultimately those streets could be widened. This ordinance is based upon the Chestnut street ordinance of the City of Philadelphia, which has been in operation for many years and with which many local people are familiar.

In view of the fact that the passage of such an ordinance would vitally affect several important properties and might in the future lead to considerable additional public expense, it is a subject of interest to all the taxpayers of the Borough. This ordinance has been introduced principally to determine the state of public opinion on this matter and Council will be largely guided thereby. In order to provide an opportunity for the clear expression of that opinion, a public hearing on that ordinance will be held in Elm Hall at 8 P. M. on Wednesday, February 8.

"ENOCH ARDEN"

Strauss Afternoon at Women's Community Club.

"An hour of Strauss" was the name given the entertainment presented at the Women's Civic Club of Narberth on Tuesday, January 24. Mrs. John B. Hipwell, of Philadelphia, sang two of Richard Strauss' songs with Mrs. Howard Hipwell at the piano. Mrs. Lester Collier read a paper to furnish a true Tennysonian atmosphere, giving anecdotes from his life and a fine study of his character. This was followed by a paper on Richard Strauss with description of the outstanding qualities of his composition read by Mrs. Arthur Staples. These two made a splendid introduction to the reading of Tennyson's "Enoch Arden" set to music by Strauss.

Mrs. F. S. Havens, of the Sherwood Club, brought her audience to the scene of a fishing village on one of the channel islands and most dramatically began the long story of the life and love of Enoch Arden. Seldom does one find such power and sweetness in a reader. Miss Hinterleiter played a few bars of low-pitched music, symbolizing the booming rush of the sea. Then as Mrs. Havens described the three children: Annie Lee, Philip and Enoch, playing on the sands, there came motifs of sweetness and virile strength. Interludes of music followed by the reading of a scene ended at last in Enoch's cry of desperation and solitude. Mrs. George B. Suplee was hostess.

There were 23 members of the Women's Community Club at Willow Grove on Thursday, January 26, to attend the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs.

LUTHERAN AID MEETS

On Tuesday evening, January 31, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Lutheran Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Joseph Lebo, 107 Elmwood avenue.

"CHOKING CARS TO DEATH"

Auto Club Manager Sounds Timely Warning.

In spite of all the warnings that have been issued, motor car owners are continuing this winter to "choke their cars to death," says Ernest W. Tallman, of Wayne, general manager of the Auto Club of Philadelphia, who declares that motor club auto service experts report this as the most prolific cause of car wear during cold weather. The choke is a vital adjunct to use of the automobile in winter, but unless properly used it is capable of inflicting serious damage to the finest units of the engine mechanism, Mr. Tallman declares.

"Service establishments associated with this club and others of the 950 that comprise the American Automobile Association report hundreds of instances of choke abuse already this winter," says Mr. Tallman. "Why this evil should be continued in the face of the constantly reiterated warnings of its effects is almost past understanding."

"The function of the choke is to cut off the air at the carburetor, thus enriching the gasoline mixture for cold weather starting. The instant the engine has fired, the choke should be pushed in. If it is not, raw gasoline will gather in the combustion chamber of the cylinders and seep down the walls and into the crankcase, where it will mix with the lubricating oil. Diluting this oil, it robs it of the body that is necessary if it is to carry out its duty of keeping moving surfaces apart. As long as this diluted oil is allowed to remain in the crankcase, the motorist may be certain that bearings, cylinder walls, piston pins and other vital units are wearing."

CHANGE TOWNSHIPS SESSION TO MARCH

Convention Dates Switched at Request of Eastern Delegates.

DISTRICT MEETING HERE

The annual convention of the State Association of First Class Townships scheduled for January and then for February has been changed to March at the request of Commissioner Andrew Macdonald, of Lower Merion, and other eastern delegates who found the earlier dates unsuitable. Information of the change was given in a letter sent Mr. Macdonald this week by President William E. Armstrong of the association.

No definite dates in March have yet been set for the convention which is to be a three-day affair, but the time will be either the first or the second week of March. The convention will be held in Pittsburgh, where the delegates will be the guests of the Chamber of Commerce of that city.

One of the speakers who will address the convention will be J. Herman Knisely, chief of the bureau of municipalities. This is the bureau which passes upon the legality of bond issue and similar township matters of finance.

Governor Fisher, who addressed the delegates at last year's banquet, is again expected to be the principal guest at the dinner which will again conclude this year's three-day session. In addition there are plans for a speaker of national prominence.

Will Chose Eastern Head.

Election of officers will be one of the many things to come before the convention. The two year term of President Armstrong, who comes from Allegheny county, expires this year and it is planned to replace him with a man from the eastern part of the State. This will probably mean the choice of a man from one of the first class townships in the Philadelphia suburban area.

Other officers whose terms expire this year are first vice president, Charles F. Mebus, of Abington; second vice president, Alex Stevenson, of Butler county; third vice president, Arthur Wright, of Newport township, and secretary, M. B. Black, of Annesville. Mr. Black, who is well acquainted with the business details of the organization, will in all probability be re-elected.

Andrew Macdonald, of Lower Merion, is chairman of the association's legislative committee.

Following usual custom, townships in the Philadelphia suburban area will hold a district meeting before the convention in Pittsburgh to discuss projects which the wish to bring before the State association. This will probably be held in the Lower Merion township building in Ardmore. Date for it will soon be set by Vice President Charles F. Mebus, of Abington, who will preside at the session.

He Wouldn't Advertise

An advertisement appeared in Printers' Ink in the June 13, 1922, issue. It was inserted by Calkins & Holden, Inc., a New York advertising agency.

The copy has an interesting slant and we are reprinting it.

Big Ben aroused the household. Tossing off the Nashua, the man who did not read advertising slid out of the Simmons.

Five minutes with Williams, Rubberset and Gillette, two more with Pebecco and Prophylactic, and shedding his Faultless, he was ready for a shower.

He dressed carefully. B. V. Ds, Interwoven, Boston's and Hanan's, selected a Keiser-Barathea that harmonized with his Manhattan, knotted this in a new Van Heusen, and put on his Schanz.

A glass of Sunkist juice stood at his plate, at breakfast, Yuban steamed in the Manning-Bowman, and Beech-Nut sent up its appetizing odor.

Breakfast finished, he picked up his Stetson and Fownes and stepped into the waiting Franklin.

At his office the mail lay in his Macy. He dictated a few replies to his secretary, to be transcribed on Crane's on her Noisless, and signed with his Waterman.

Occasionally he glanced at his Wall-tham for there was a board meeting which he did not want to miss. The subject to be discussed was advertising, and he had something to say on that subject.

At 11 o'clock he took his place at the big table, lit a Robert Burns, listened to what the others had to say, and then delivered this honest opinion:

"I do not believe people read advertisements. I don't. I always skip the advertisements in the magazines and newspapers I see, and advertising does not affect my purchases at all."

WAYNE

JUST one hundred and fifty years ago this winter George Washington and his troops were encamped between Wayne and Valley Forge. Nowhere else in America does the true spirit of Colonial times linger as it does among the picturesque hills of this historic region.

It is most fitting that a spot so rich in Revolutionary tradition should serve as the background of a group of homes in which the Colonial atmosphere is to be faithfully recreated. Such a colony—a veritable Colonial village, in fact, is about to be founded on a five-hundred-acre tract of the choicest countryside in the Martin's Dam section, six minutes by motor north of Wayne Station.

These single homesteads will occupy sites varying from one and one-half to five acres, and will be built in the true Colonial or the closely related Georgian styles. Some will be of stone, others of brick or clapboard. There will be replicas of Mount Vernon, Monticello and other early American mansions. Absolute fidelity to period detail will be pleasingly blended with the appointments of a luxurious modern home. There will be old Colonial plank floors, forged iron hardware, real Colonial mantels with large white log-burning fireplaces, and quaint period electrical fixtures. These homes will have five and six bedrooms and three baths. Prices range from $25,000 to $40,000.

The tract is bounded on three sides by State highways, with improved and widened tarvia roads running through the property. All streets are electrically lighted, and there is Springfield water service. Quaint sign posts have been placed throughout the settlement.

Adjoining this tract is the new "Chester Valley Stables" Riding Academy, from which one may take daily rides over the beautiful countryside and through the Valley Forge Park of 2500 acres. A polo field and steeplechase course will shortly be added to its facilities. The new St. Davids Golf Club is within walking distance to the south, while adjoining this tract to the north is the newly completed Valley Forge Golf Course. Directly east, and practically adjoining, is the "Bob White Farm," home of the Chester Valley Hunt. At Wayne is a new motion picture theater with 1500 seating capacity. Wayne also has numerous fine stores and public, parochial and private schools. Six churches.

One of these homes will soon be completely furnished in the Colonial manner. Plots of from one and one-half to five acres are available for those desiring to build their own homes in this highly restricted Colonial Village.

Here is an ideal location for the man who wants to live in the country, and yet keep in close daily touch with his business. There is thirty-minute express service (no change of cars), on the P. R. R. Main Line from Wayne to Broad Street Station, with eighty trains daily, and a commutation rate of sixteen cents. In addition there are one hundred and thirty-four trains a day on the Philadelphia and Western R. R. and bus service along the entire Main Line.

Early Controversies on Fishing in Schuylkill Caused "Naval Tilts"

Long before there was a Montgomery county, and even before there was province of Pennsylvania, the Schuylkill bore the name by which it is now known. The name is the oldest geographical name associated with Montgomery county that is not of Indian origin. The stream has been a great factor in the history and the industry of the county. Hence it is appropriate that Montgomery county should join in the movement that is receiving attention along the 125-mile course of the Schuylkill, to bring about the rehabilitation of the stream, to free it from pollution, to assure the preservation of the landscape beauties along its shores and to persuade the cities and towns through which it flows to make the river banks attractive.

It is natural to use the term "Schuylkill River." However, to attach "river" to Schuylkill is redundant. "Schuylkill" means "Hidden river," "kill" being Dutch for "river." To say "Schuylkill River" is therefore equivalent to saying "Hidden river river."

Captain Hendrickson, the Dutch navigator who discovered the stream, in 1616, is said to have called it the "hidden river" because its mouth was concealed behind islands in the Delaware River.

The earlier Indian name of the stream was "Manaiyunk," said to mean "The place where we drink." Quarrels were frequent.

The banks of the Schuylkill witnessed the movements of two contending armies during the Pennsylvania campaign of 150 years ago. But a long time before that this river was the scene of what former Governor S. Pennypacker facetiously described as a "naval engagement."

In the early days of the eighteenth century there was frequent quarries and conflicts between boatmen and fishermen as to their respective rights in the Schuylkill.

Roads were few and poorly adapted for traffic in those days. Hence it was necessary to make use of the river as the main highway of commerce. Farmers living along its banks hauled their grain and other products to market in Philadelphia on large flat boats, and they returned home with groceries and merchandise.

Fish abounded in the Schuylkill, especially shad in the spring. Owners of land along the stream claimed the right to catch the fish and to catch them in the most expeditious manner possible. They built dams and weirs in the stream in which the shad were caught in great numbers.

These dams and weirs obstructed the passage of the flatboats. Sometimes the loaded boats stuck fast for hours on the fish dams. The boatmen had to plunge into the stream, no matter what the weather, and laboriously endeavor to pull their craft away from the obstruction. Sometimes the boats were upset, the cargoes lost and the lives of boatmen endangered.

Hence conflicts occurred between the men who wanted to fish and the men who were marketing their farm products.

Used Unique Methods.

Fish dams were constructed by building a wall in the stream in the form of the segment of a circle, with the opening up stream. From the ends of the walls racks extended obliquely to both shores. Men in canoes and horseback would dash through the waters above the dam, making all manner noises and driving the fish down toward the dam where they were caught with nets.

Another method was to build racks from shore to shore and when the shad traveled up stream at the spawning season they dashed themselves in great numbers against the racks and were readily caught.

In one of the most famous dams in the Schuylkill at Port Providence it is said 8500 shad were caught in one day, 40 men being engaged in the work.

As early as 1724 the authorities of the province took action on the protests which the boatmen made against the fish dams, and a law was enacted ordering the fish dams and weirs in the Schuylkill be demolished. Six years later another act was passed and weirs.

Law enforcement was more difficult then than now, and the protests of the boatmen continued. Numerous affidavits telling of the hazardous experiences of men operating boats which were stranded on dams are still preserved in the State archives in Harrisburg.

Finally one day in the spring of 1738 the boatmen assembled in force, determined to put an end to the objectionable practices of the fishermen. But the story of the "naval engagement" that followed must await telling on another day.

'Twas Mild, He Says

But Weatherman Remembers Main Line's Cold Week-End, Too.

With the exception of Saturday and Sunday, which were by no means warm, the past week's weather has been unusually mild, according to Charles J. A. Decker, Main Line Weather Observer. His report for the week ending Tuesday night shows a temperature excess since January 1 of 109 degrees, as compared with a deficiency for the same period last year of 21 degrees.

High and low temperatures for the seven-day period were as follows: Wednesday, 42-35; Thursday, 44-36; Friday, 44-21; Saturday, 21-15; Sunday, 37-13; Monday, 49-27; Tuesday, 52-27.

Precipitation was .71 of an inch for the week, and .99 of an inch for the month to Tuesday evening. The barometer was high at 30.33 and low at 29.32.

Kiwanians Hear Wetherill

What was probably the most successful meeting in the history of the Main Line Kiwanis Club was held at the Casa Del Rey on Tuesday, January 24, at 6.30 P. M.

There has been considerable discussion throughout the Main Line territory for many years and particularly during the last few months concerning the setting aside of large tracts of ground for public park purposes.

Recently the Regional Planning Federation of the Philadelphia Tri-State District, have extended the scope of their activities to the Main Line territory, and with the thought in mind of hearing from the highest available authorities on the subject, W. H. C. Ramsey, chairman of the Public Affairs Committee, of the Main Line Kiwanis Club, who had charge of the meeting, had arranged to have as a speaker Colonel S. Price Wetherill, Jr., of the Federation.

Colonel Wetherill, in the course of his address, called attention to the fact that there is at the present time in Lower Merion township about an acre of park to every 2000 inhabitants, and he compared this with the average available ground for this purpose in the large cities of the country, where the average is much higher than in Lower Merion township and throughout the Philadelphia Tri-State District.

Colonel Wetherill illustrated his talk by several slides showing the development of the park system in Boston and New York, and outlined the tremendous amount of money spent in these cities in acquiring land after it had been developed and was occupied by individual dwelling houses. He outlined the necessity of securing suitable ground for this purpose in the township, selecting the ground which is yet undeveloped and could be bought at a fraction of the price which it will bring within the next few years. Several of the lantern slides showing various views of the bed of the Mill Creek and the territory surrounding it were particularly interesting to the club members.

Colonel Wetherill gave it as his opinion that there will within the next few years, be necessary an extension of Fairmount Park along the west bank of the Schuylkill River to the bed of the Mill Creek, where it will connect with an immense public park extending along the bed of the Mill Creek beyond Bryn Mawr. It is then the plan of the Federation to subsequently connect all of the public parks throughout the Tri-State District with well surfaced roads, these roads to form a part of a comprehensive plan of development whereby various routes for express traffic will be laid out throughout the Tri-State District which will avoid traffic congestion.

TELEPHONE EMPLOYEES

Pennsylvania Bell Company Has Over Twenty Thousand on Rolls.

More than 20,300 persons are now employed by the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, according to the Pennsylvania Public Service Information Committee.

Approximately 10,800 are in the traffic department, of whom close to 95 per cent. are women operators. Telephone engineers are constantly at work checking the volume of calls which pass through the switchboards in the Commonwealth.

In the commercial department there are now about 1340 persons. Studies are made to determine how many subscribers visit the different business offices and how many telephone calls are received. With this knowledge as a basis, the company is in a position to know how many employees are required to handle the contacts quickly, efficiently and economically. The plant department with 6100 employees must also arrange its forces to handle its share of the work efficiently. The remainder of the company's personnel are included in the engineering, accounting and executive departments.

A PAGE ON NARBERTH'S CHURCHES

THE BAPTIST CHURCH OF THE EVANGEL

The beautiful home of the Narberth Baptist Church, built in 1892, and enlarged in 1924. Rev. Robert E. Keighton, present pastor of the church, was introduced to his new congregation at the dedicatory exercises in November of that year. The church has a membership of over 225.

Baptist Church of the Evangel Has Passed Its 34th Anniversary

Begun as Mission, Church
Soon Achieved Independent Existence.

Last November marked the thirty-fourth anniversary of the Baptist Church of the Evangel as an independent organization. The germ of the present church was a mission organized on May 25, 1891, at Narberth. This mission sought the support of the First Baptist Church of Philadelphia and became formally identified with it the following January. Meanwhile a lot was purchased and a temporary building erected in June, 1891, on the site of the present church building at the corner of Elmwood and Narberth avenues. A new building was begun that fall, the corner stone being laid October 10 with appropriate ceremonies. It was formally opened April 14, 1892. The pastor of the mother church, Dr. George Dana Boardman, officiated at the first communion service on July 17, and at the first baptism on September 18.

A call was extended to the Rev. Harold Kennedy to become pastor and he took up his work December 1, 1892. In the fall of the following year it was resolved to form an independent church. This plan met the endorsement of the mother church, and on November 14, 1893, the Baptist Church of the Evangel came into being. The name was suggested by Dr. Boardman. It was soon formally recognized by the council of Baptist Churches and recognition services were held.

During Mr. Kennedy's pastorate of nearly 10 years the church increased its membership and gained a firmer footing in the community. The pastor resigned in March, 1902, due to protracted ill health.

The following June the Rev. J. Milnor Wilbur received a call to the pastorate. The church membership increased from 93 to 130 during his ministry. Mr. Wilbur resigned in March, 1907, to become pastor of the Central Baptist Church of Trenton. At the present time Mr. Wilbur is president of the Baptist Institute for Christian Workers at Broad street and Snyder avenue, Philadelphia, one of the foremost organizations of its kind in America.

The next pastor was the Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, of Watertown, Mass. The period of his pastorate from September, 1907, to December, 1910, was an unusually prosperous one for the church. In the latter part of Mr. Abbott's ministry he was the secretary of the Narberth Y. M. C. A.

At his resignation in December, 1910, the Rev. John Gordon became acting pastor. Dr. Gordon rendered efficient service for five months.

The Rev. Emerson L. Swift held the pastorate from July, 1911, to July, 1916. The work of the church progressed under his leadership.

In May, 1917, the Rev. Avery S. Demmy, a graduate of Rochester Theological Seminary, was called to the pastorate. Mr. Demmy's pastorate of seven years saw the inception of the new church building in July, 1923. This work was begun by him, was not completed until after he resigned which was in May, 1924.

The dedication services were held the week of November 23, 1924, featured by special services and prominent speakers. At the concluding service the minister-elect, Rev. Robert E. Keighton, was introduced.

Although there is an attractive and adequate auditorium, the greater part of the building is specially designed for educational, social and recreational purposes. The facilities for the Church School are unusually extensive. Separate departments with individual assembly and class rooms are provided for the various divisions. It is thus in accord with the best modern methods of religious education. An effort has been made through the use of curtained windows, potted plants and similar furnishings to enhance the natural attractiveness and homelike quality of the various rooms. This is particularly true of the Beginners' room with its open fireplace and long low windows and southern exposure.

The recreational facilities of the church are quite unusual. There is a gymnasium suitable for junior basketball and similar sports. It is open under supervision at stated times for boys and girls. It can be made available for other purposes such as volley ball or hand ball for adults. The gym is also used four afternoons a week by the young ladies of Miss Sayard's School of Overbrook. The two new bowling alleys are a popular feature as evidenced by their use by men, women, boys and girls. The Interchurch Bowling League uses the alleys four evenings a week during their tournament season.

Mr. Keighton, the present minister, took up his work in December, 1924. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, class of 1919, and of Crozer Theological Seminary, from which he received his B.D. and master's degree. In addition to his pastoral work Mr. Keighton has been teaching at Crozer for six years.

A notable feature of Mr. Keighton's ministry is the series of dramatizations that have been presented by the church. The first one was "The Terrible Meek," by Charles Ramm Kennedy (author of the well-known play, "The Servant in the House," recently revived by Walter Hampden).

Will Build Colonial Village, First of Its Kind, on Main Line

"Colonial plank floors, forged iron hardware, large log-burning fireplaces, mantels and old antiques of every description that are reminiscent of Colonial times in the Revolutionary period, are being sought by the general public nowadays," said J. Howard Mecke, Jr., this week, in explanation of his latest real estate development.

"In small towns and large cities the revival of Colonial spirit has caused churches, large office buildings, commercial buildings and club houses to be designed and built along Colonial lines. We have the English village, types of Spanish architecture and houses of Italian design, but Philadelphia, the home of American Independence, has never had a strictly Colonial development, along strictly Colonial lines, on land that has some bearing on the American Revolution," he said.

Feeling that the American public are demanding antiques of every description, together with old houses that have some Revolutionary history, Mr. Mecke has laid aside 500 acres of land between Wayne, on the Main Line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and George Washington's campground at Valley Forge, for the development of a true Colonial village adjoining the historic park.

Perhaps in no other spot in America could a true Colonial village be more fitting than the proposed site in the Martin's Dam section, which is 30 minutes from Broad street station on the Main Line, and a six minute motor ride directly north of Wayne station. Practically adjoining the tract are the original headquarters of some of the most prominent generals of the Revolution, such as Washington, Lafayette, Poor, Morgan, Wayne, Knox, Green, DuPont, Varnum, Weedon, Muhlenberg, Davis and Scott.

"The automobile, the radio, telephone, electricity and Springfield water have opened up the country," Mr. Mecke says, "and it is practically impossible to locate a true farm within a radius of 20 miles of Philadelphia today. Land which was farmed some five years ago has become too valuable when there is such a demand for two and three acre plots by the American people now."

Springfield water, good roads, streets electrically lighted, quaint sign posts are to be placed throughout the new settlement.

CLUB DEFERS VOTE ON INCREASED DUES

Ballot Vote on Amendment to Be Sought Before the Next Meeting.

HEAR TWO SPEAKERS

Discussion pro and con anent a constitutional amendment which would increase membership dues next fall occupied most of the January meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club, held Tuesday night in the Cynwyd fire hall. Many visitors were present, and the attendance, in spite of a heavy rainfall, was over 100.

Consideration of the amendment was postponed until the February meeting, on motion of Peter Stanley Barton, as a result of the adverse criticism which it provoked. Before the next meeting, a straw ballot or questionnaire will be sent each member, as proposed by Tinsley W. Rucker, Jr., in order that the views of all may be determined before the amendment comes up for a vote.

Many and long were the arguments presented for and against acceptance of the amendment, which would increase the present $3 year's dues to $5, and the half-year dues from $1.50 to $3, effective next fall. The increase would mean an additional payment by each club member of four cents per week.

E. S. DeLong, chairman of the club's Booster Committee, pointed out that the life of the club is made up of its new members, "and they will not object to paying dues which amount to 10 cents a week," he said.

Opposing the increase came the statement that "we need new members. The future of the club will not depend upon the amount of money it has, but upon the number of men who will carry on its work."

W. A. Waters, treasurer, backed by George W. Selby, vice president; George Wilson, ex-solicitor; W. C. Neely, ex-president; H. O. Peebles, W. S. Sutherland and many others, explained that the proposed increase in dues will enable the club to aid worthy charities and community projects, and finance the annual Fourth of July celebration, without being compelled to spend time and money in efforts to raise needed funds by special contributions as has been done in the past.

Harry A. Ferreira, Sr., treasurer of last year's Fourth of July Committee, deplored the waste of 23½ cents which he said was the cost of collecting each dollar for the celebration, because the club was not able to pay out of its own treasury the cost, which runs between $300 and $400 each year.

Answering requests for information about an unexpended balance in the club's treasury, Treasurer Waters explained that $140 had been realized in benefit theater performances in addition to between $50 and $75 received as private subscriptions. He stated that the balance in the treasury last year after all dues were collected and all expenses were paid, amounted to 30 cents in the regular fund.

A talk on regional zoning by Howard Strong, secretary of the Regional Planning Federation, preceded the business meeting, and at the conclusion of the meeting, before refreshments were served, lecture on conservation of forests and game was given by Norman M. Wood, of the research and information bureau of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Mr. Strong, introduced by L. Bert Eyster, told of William Penn's regional zoning of Philadelphia. "Today, Philadelphia has the country's loveliest suburbs," he said, "but is more poorly supplied than any other region with suburban parks."

"The standard in such matters is one acre of parks for every 200 inhabitants, but Lower Merion township has only one acre of parks for every 2000 inhabitants."

Increase of One Mill in County Tax Rate Likely to Pay for Annex

There is a strong probability that the county tax rate for the next two or three years will be increased one mill, according to advices from Norristown.

The building of the new Court House annex is going to cost the county approximately a million dollars.

The question whether it would be better for the taxpayers as a whole to meet this cost by an extra assessment, paying the whole bill in the next few years from taxes or to bond the county for a million dollars, spreading the payment over 30 years, has been one which has been the subject of thought and conference by the commissioners ever since the first of the year.

If the county is bonded for the amount needed the interest added during the period will about equal the amount of the principal, making the new structure cost the county about $2,000,000, it is held in some quarters.

If the tax rate is raised the whole amount can be cleaned up in a few years and the tax rate restored to its present figure, it is maintained.

It is a question with the county commissioners, after close figuring, whether, even if bonds were issued, it would not be essential to raise the tax rate in order to meet the requirements of interest and sinking fund charges. The burden on the taxpayers, in meeting this requirement, would then continue for the next 30 years, it is contended.

No Decision Yet

The matter has not yet been decided and will probably not be until some time next week. In the meantime the commissioners will continue to give the pros and cons careful consideration.

It may be said, however, rather definitely, but not officially, that there is every indication that the tax rate will be increased one mill.

With the completion of the triennial assessment for 1928, county officials soon will be in a position to ascertain the total increase in assessment valuations and thus arrive at an estimate of their resources.

Pending the tabulations of the last of triennial reports which have just been filed with the county commissioners' chief clerk, Harry Shainline, the county commissioners and county controller are busy calculating just what is needed, in the matter of finances, to complete the year-end year and which must be completed and paid for finally during the present fiscal year. The needs of the departments and the various institutions are also being estimated, all to the end that when the sum total of estimated receipts, based on the new valuations, and the fixed demands upon the county is arrived at, there the officials will have some idea as to what will be available for new work.

The controller expects to submit to the commissioners, before the close of the present month, a budget for the financial expenditures for the year, and make a recommendation as to the tax rate that will be required to provide the necessary revenues for the county for this year. The commissioners then will have until February 15 to fix the 1928 tax rate.

TELLS OF AVIATION

Jordan Gaul, of Narberth, was the speaker Sunday evening at a meeting of the Young People's Fellowship in St. John's Church, Cynwyd. A member of the National Aeronautical Association, he gave an interesting talk on aviators and their planes, and the necessary qualifications for each. He also told some tales of the world war, when airplanes were first brought into practical wartime use.

Plans were made last Sunday for a dance to be given by the Fellowship early in April.

To Replace Alarm Clocks

The Rev. Daniel Driscoll, of the School of Technology, Villanova College, has invented a "call system" and installed it in the monastery of the college to take the place of alarm clocks.

Father Driscoll's device is built into the wall and has a dial. It is connected to a master clock. Just before retiring the student turns the dial to the hour he desires to be awakened.

AT COUNCIL SESSION

Reducating themselves to the service of the disabled world war veteran and his needs, 200 women members of the Bucks-Montgomery Bi-County Council of American Legion Auxiliaries held their annual meeting Friday in Norristown. Mrs. Edward Wipf, of Narberth, who was elected treasurer, was among the new officers installed. All the Main Line Auxiliaries were represented. From Bala-Cynwyd there was Mrs. George B. McKinney and Mrs. Mildred Fort; from Narberth—Mrs. Wipf; from Bryn Mawr—President Mrs. Smith and Past President Mrs. Calvert; from Ardmore—Miss Regina Donaghy and Mrs. Albert Reinhold.

CHECK UP BY THIS

Library Makes List of Outstanding Books of 1927.

"Outstanding Books of 1927" is the title of a printed list of 30 non-fiction books and 12 fiction books which is now available at the library for those interested persons who wish to pay the small price of two cents each, the actual cost. This list has been compiled by disinterested authorities and is a valuable means of checking up on the reading which you actually did or overlooked doing last year. Practically all of the books on the list are available at the library.

The fact that there are more than twice as many non-fiction as fiction titles on the list is not an indication that the compilers had any fixed prejudice against fiction as such. It simply indicates that in their opinion, out of the thousands of books published last year, there were only 42 which they considered to be outstanding; that is, likely to possess more than passing value.

Many Narberth women who are accustomed to hear the lectures by May Lamberton Becker in Philadelphia each winter will be interested to know that included in this list is her "Adventures in Reading." Many of the volumes in this list like Mark Sullivan's "Our Times" for example, have already enjoyed a wide popularity among the patrons of the Narberth Library. Many long evenings still remain to this winter. That is the time when most people can indulge in reading. Those who wish to make sure that they have not overlooked any good book will find it well worth two cents to secure a copy of this convenient printed list the next time that they visit the library.

MOVE OLD POST OFFICE

the south side might give way to a concourse. The change became effective on the first of January, and save for an occasional car of stone, all Narberth freight has come from the Wynnewood siding.

Complaints reached the ears of Burgess Henry A. Frye, however, that Ardmore, and not Wynnewood, was being used, resulting in expense and loss of time to freight users. As a result of these criticisms, Mr. Frye took up the matter with R. P. Russell, Pennsylvania Railroad superintendent.

Mr. Russell explained that the Wynnewood sidings had been tied up by the unloading of materials by the Union Paving Company for work on Montgomery avenue, but that in future all freight for the borough would be unloaded at Wynnewood.

The next step in the railroad's improvement is believed to be in the widening of the Narberth avenue bridge this year. The Pennsy may also tear up the freight tracks and build the concourse this year.

When the burgess thanked Mr. Russell for starting the improvements at the Haverford avenue corner, he hinted that a tunnel under the tracks at Essex avenue might well be considered in the plan. Little encouragement was vouchsafed by the official, however.

CHANGE POLICY IN EGYPTIAN THEATER

Musical Attractions Feature Reopening of Cynwyd Movies.

When the Egyptian Theater in Cynwyd reopened its doors last night its management inaugurated a new policy in Main Line theatrical entertainment. On an enlarged stage musical diversissements secured direct from bookings in New York were featured offered last night and tonight in connection with motion pictures.

For nearly two weeks no films have been shown since the Stanley-Effinger interests gave their last performance, but arrangements have now been made to secure well-known artists and musical organizations for bookings in the near future, as well as early run high-class pictures.

A staff of employees has been selected to man the theater, and Rod M. Warren was appointed this week as resident-manager. He is a Philadelphia and a Penn State graduate.

Eunice Berky, organist from New York and Los Angeles, has been engaged for the Egyptian Theater. She will be assisted by Pat Riley's collegiate orchestra, consisting largely of University of Pennsylvania men. They will be permanent attractions of the theater, giving musical novelties and also accompanying the photoplays.

about the Garden

Gardeners who are just starting as well as those who have a garden planted with bulbs and perennials will necessarily want to consider buying seeds of annuals for late summer and fall bloom.

According to the seedmen's records the twelve most popular annuals are in the dozen listed below. As some of them will be started indoors in order to get early bloom it is time to get them ordered.

Asters for September and October. The tall branching are the most satisfactory for cutting and can be had in shades of white, pink or rose, lavender, purple and red; 24 inches to 30 inches tall.

Calendula or Pot Marigold. Lemon King and Orange King describe the two best numbers with the Ball, a golden orange kind, a good choice if only one is wanted. Height 18 inches. Calendulas self sow and are hardy.

Centauria Cyanus or Cornflower comes in white, pink or blue and is also hardy. Height 36 inches. The double blue is the one best bet and is the one flower that a man can wear in his lapel and still feel like a dignified citizen.

Cosmos in white, pink or crimson and in the early flowering variety for August and September or the Lady Lennox, or late one, for October. Cosmos can be had in single or double, the double one having a tufted center. The yellow Klondyke can be classed as not so good. Well grown they will reach to five or six feet and are fine for the back of the border or for cutting.

Gaillardia, the annual kind, is popular, and if one likes the crimson center in an orange colored flower buy them and plant them; they will grow 18 inches tall and are good for cutting—if arranged with gaillardias and gaillardias.

Larkspur, annual. Any flower that is at all related to the hardy larkspur or delphinium is a fine flower and this annual is that. It can be had in the light blue and dark blue of the delphinium and also in white, pink and lavender. It grows 36 inches tall and the stock flowered one makes fine spikes for cutting.

Petunias. Ah! here is the nice little annual. The most accommodating thing and the most persistent bloomer. If we had a garden of Rosy Morn petunias we would have a fine garden.

For porch boxes or window boxes and vases we have the balcony types that like space to climb downward. These two types come in nice colors of white, pink, blue and crimson. The California Giants come ruffled, frilled, large, striped, blotched, mixed colors, gaudy and altogether gay and Hollywoodish and if you like that kind of flowers buy 'em and sow 'em—they'll grow.

Phlox, annual. Here is another nice one for filling in the border, 12 inches to 15 inches tall and in white, pink, scarlet, crimson, lilac and—the best color of all—primrose. Fine among gladioli.

Poppies, annual of course. Shirley poppies can be used as cut flowers if cut before the calyx falls off; the calyx is the green shell that holds the bud, by the way; but even if they could not be used for cutting they are the daintiest flower in the garden. Colors white, pink and red and 30 inches tall. Hardy. The variety Wild Rose Pink is especially fine. The Shirleys are single, and therefore more beautiful, but annual poppies can also be had in a double variety.

Scabiosa for a bed or for cutting is a most satisfactory annual. The new varieties Peachblossom, pink, and Shasta, white, are extra fine, but the older varieties are all good in white, pink, lavender, dark purple and crimson. Height 30 inches.

Snaptail or antirrhinum. This paragraph could be a book, but it will not. Buy seeds of the half dwarf kind (18 inches) or the tall ones (30 inches to 36 inches) if you insist and follow the garden column for the "dope" on how to bring them through early. Or if you are not a careful, patient gardener better buy plants. The colors are all good and pinks and pale yellow ones give us some of the most beautiful shades from the garden. The "snappies" will stand more shade than most annuals.

Zinnia is number 12. All you need for a garden of zinnias is some soil, lots of it, sunshine and rain on it, ten cents' worth of zinnia seeds and not too many weeds. Buy the dahlia-flowered size if you must, but take a tip and get a packet of the little pom-poms for cut flowers for all over the house all summer and all fall.

The garden editor will attempt to answer questions about the garden. Mail your question to this publication and the question and answer will appear in the following issue.

CONCERT WELL ATTENDED

Bridge, and Listz's Sonnet from "Petrarch." She surmounted well the difficulties of the last number, giving it a strong and spirited reading.

"The Last Spring," by Grieg, was played with fidelity to its rather mournful character, and the requisite light reading was given Debussy's "Arabesque." The concert closed with a vigorous rendition of the "Oberon" overture of Weber. The orchestra is familiar with this piece, having offered it several times in the past, and the audience attested well its popularity by prolonged applause.

OUR RELATION TO GOOD SERVICE

It might at first seem that in the matter of service being rendered by telephone or railroad corporations, there would be little or no opportunity for us to assist unless we were employed in such service. There are, however, many ways in which we may co-operate. In our dealings we may help to speed up service by taking the trouble to avoid delaying others. If we keep in mind the need for being careful and considerate, we shall be reasonably certain to do our share. Remember that the store which will have good service is the one whose customers appreciate the service and co-operate to keep it up to proper standards.
